

Ah, yes, the mysterious figure based on the Vitruvian man. Perhaps it's representative of Mata Nui's original stance? It's been around for a while, you know. Ever since MNOLG (on the telescope) and the old Toa CD (at the Amaja-Nui). In the Toa Mata CD, clicking on the man starts a narrated animation of the legend of Mata Nui as told with stones (like in MNOLG). The man, supposedly Mata Nui himself, is the legend, is the universe, is the story.
